W. Harmon Critically Wounded by Shot From Down Pistol, Alleged To Have Been Furnished Prisoner by Kinsman.

OSSE IS ORGANIZED TO HUNT FUGITIVES

Stolen Auto Found Abandoned; Two of Trio Under Sentences for Highway Robbery, Burglary.

LAFAYETTE, Ga., April 10.—A shot from his own pistol, fired by one of three escaping prisoners, A. W. Harmon, former sheriff of Walker county, was in a critical condition at a hospital here today night, and his nephew, Lamar Harmon, was held on a charge of complicity in the jail break.

Glenn is alleged to have furnished ex Williams, who was awaiting trial on an automobile theft charge, a gun which he used to force Jailer E. Cameron to unlock his cell door. Williams was Troy Crisp, under sentence of three years for highway robbery, and Earl Finney, under sentence of ten years for burglary.

Crisp was captured by a posse of citizens in the mountains near here several hours after the shooting, but trace had been found of Williams and Finney late this afternoon.

Crisp told officers that Williams attempted to prevent the fugitives from seizing his automobile, parked at the edge of a burial ground.

"Harmon was in the cemetery placing flowers on a grave," Crisp said.

When he saw us getting in his automobile, he came running. He was this 20 feet of the car when Williams fired."

Crisp said that Williams started shooting again but Harmon called "It's no use to waste another shot, buddy. You've already got me."

Threatening us with the gun, he then ran about 400 yards toward a farmhouse and fell, the count said.

Glenn, a brother-in-law of Williams, with Harmon's father, L. F. Harmon, near here. The former sheriff is said to have been kept a trunk at the elder Harmon's home. Members of the family identified it as belonging to the wounded man this afternoon.

Glenn, however, refused to say whether or not he is one of the charges.

Harmon's automobile was found abandoned several miles from here. Harmon was shot just above the heart, the bullet piercing his chest and emerging below the shoulder.

Describing the escape, Jailer Cameron said that he and two trustees of the jail had gone to the prisoners' cage. He said that Williams "covered" him and ordered him to unlock the door.

Threatening us with the gun, they pushed us into the cage, took my keys and unlocked the door. The keys to the outside door were not on the ring, however, and they came running back, they threatened to kill me if I didn't give them the keys, but I didn't have them.

"I thought the delay might give us time to raise an alarm, but they ran into the basement and escaped through the coal chute."

"This is radio station WPDY, the voice of the Atlanta police department, broadcasting."

This call, from a low wave station, will begin working havoc with crooks in about 30 days. The call letters have been assigned by the federal radio commission, a construction permit has been issued and the police department will arrive within a few days, it was announced Friday.

New Cell Murder Arrest Expected by Detectives

John Jones (left), fatally stabbed in his cell at police headquarters, and Bill Benson, charged with the murder.

At least one arrest, and possibly more, on the outside are expected by police today in connection with the investigation being conducted into the fatal stabbing Wednesday of John Jones in his cell at the city jail by Bill Benson, a fellow prisoner, it was stated Friday night by Detective E. W. Ginn, of the homicide squad.

Ginn, along with Detective Lon Evans, was assigned by Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole Thursday to make inquiries as to the means by which Benson obtained possession of the penknife with which the assault was committed.

An earlier statement by "Kid" Davis, one of the prisoners in the same cell block with Benson and Jones, who claims to have been an eyewitness of the stabbing, has indicated that the knife, concealed in a shoe, was smuggled in to Benson by an unidentified man Tuesday.

Benson, a recaptured fugitive from the Banks county chain gang, is being held on a charge of murder, and the evidence so far has failed to reveal any motive for the killing beyond

CRUELTY CHARGED TO SCHOOL HEAD

Petition Seeks Release of 14-Year-Old Girl From Training School.

MACON, Ga., April 10.—(P)—A petition filed in city court here today to secure the release of Drucilla Hobbs, 14, from the Georgia Training School for Girls in Atlanta, charged Mrs. M. E. Sikes, superintendent of the school, with "cruel and inhuman punishment" of the inmates.

The petition was brought by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Hobbs. In addition to the charges against Mrs. Sikes, it alleges that Judge Hugh W. Evans, of Bibb county juvenile court, passed an illegal sentence on the Hobbs girl last August and sent her to the institution without due process of law. The petition also attacks the constitutionality of the Georgia law creating the juvenile court on the ground that it "makes no mention of trial by jury."

Mrs. Sikes is charged in the petition with forcing Drucilla to "scrub concrete and wood floors, and said child, due to her tender age, is physically unable to perform said hard labor."

The petition also sets forth that "she is forced at times to be locked up in a room, to wit: The last two weeks in March, your petitioner's child was locked up in a room in said institution and forced to stay there for a period of two weeks, only being allowed to come out of the room three times each day, and her liberty was restrained in such manner as one of the many punishments in the training school."

Judge Charles H. Hall, of city court, ordered Mrs. Sikes and officers of the school to bring the child before him Tuesday to answer the petition.

Officials of the Georgia Training School for Girls declined to make any comment whatever Friday night upon charges in connection with the treatment of Drucilla Hobbs, 14-year-old Macon girl, now an inmate at the school.

FATE OF HEWELL WITH JURY TODAY; STATE ASKS DEATH

Arguments in Case of Patrolman Charged With Murder of Minsk Are Nearing Conclusion.

The fate of Odus Hewell, city policeman charged with murder of Jake Minsk, Decatur street merchant, will rest in the hands of a jury in Judge W. E. H. Searcy's division of Fulton superior court this morning.

Argument in the Hewell case began Friday afternoon and will be concluded this morning with addresses by Defense Attorney John Dennis and Solicitor-General John A. Boykin. The state has the closing argument, since Hewell put up defense witnesses.

Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens and Special Prosecutor William Selley Howard spoke for the state Friday afternoon, classing Minsk's slaying as "cold-blooded murder." Stephens asked that the defendant be given the electric chair. Sam D. Hewlett and Representative J. W. Culpepper, of Fayetteville, spoke for Hewell, declaring that the policeman shot Minsk in self-defense. The Hewell trial began Tuesday and has drawn large crowds all during the sessions of court. Minsk was shot and killed by Hewell last August when the officer answered a call to Minsk's store. The police had been called by Harry Minsk, brother of Jake.

J. T. OZBURN FINED ON PLEA OF GUILTY

Ex-Councilman Must Pay $300 for Accepting Bribe of $250.

Ex-Councilman J. T. Ozburn Friday pleaded guilty to a bribery charge and was fined $300 by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court.

Ozburn, former councilman from the seventh ward, was given the alternative of a three-month chain-gang sentence, but announced that he will pay the fine. The charge to which he pleaded guilty was that of receiving $250 from P. O. Hebert on June 1, 1930, in connection with purchases of fire department equipment from the American LaFrance Fire Engine Company, the Eureka Fire Hose Company, and the American LaFrance and Foamite Industries.

Ozburn was indicted on the Hebert transaction Friday morning by the grand jury, and previously returned indictments charging bribery and interest in a city contract, involving purchase of street sweepers, were not pressed when the plea of guilty was entered.

Ozburn's plea followed those of ex-Councilman T. Frank Callaway and ex-Alderman Claude Buchanan, who were fined $300 each for bribery, earlier in the week.

The case of ex-Councilman H. C. McCutcheon is on the calendar for trial before Judge Pomeroy next Tuesday.

The pledge was taken to the White House along with a composite report on prohibition drawn by an "official woman's national commission for law enforcement."

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the women's national commission, described the report as "based on a careful study of the Wickersham report, to which this may be added as a woman's postscript."

A number of the "commissioners" together with officials of the national committee comprised the delegation which went to the White House.

"This group represents both political parties and various sections of the country," Mrs. Peabody told President Hoover. "They desire to express to you their gratitude for your consistent and loyal stand for the 18th amendment to the constitution and to assure you of their sympathy and support in your endeavor to enforce that great protective law."

Earlier, members of the "commission" were sworn under oath.

ABOARD LONGWORTH FUNERAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO CINCINNATI, April 10.—(P)—The body of Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house of representatives, who died of pneumonia yesterday at Aiken, S. C., was en route back to Cincinnati, his home, tonight aboard a special train chartered by the government.

The train, which left Aiken at midday, will arrive in Cincinnati at 7 o'clock (eastern standard time) tomorrow morning. Upon arrival in Cincinnati the body of Speaker Longworth will be taken to Rockwood, his home, later it will be removed to the train by a member of the American Legion post.

At Columbia, the state capital, two huge boxes of flowers were added. One was from the State of South Carolina and the other from Governor Ibra C. Blackwood.

A large crowd was gathered at the station in Union, S. C., where the train slowed down almost to a stop.

Here more flowers were received, sent by patriotic organizations of the city, and a message was given Mrs. Longworth to be delivered to her six-year-old daughter, Paulina. It read:

"Three thousand school children of Union by rising vote today expressed their sincere sympathy for you in your sorrow in losing your 'pal.' T. C. Jolley, Jr., superintendent of the city schools, signed it."

Mrs. Longworth, her brothers, Mrs. James Curtis, of Washington, and those whose Allen home the speaker was stricken, and Mrs. William Harrison, of Cincinnati, have places in the private train.

Pledge of Support Is Taken to White House by Committee.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(P)—A pledge of support to President Hoover for his stand on prohibition was given the chief executive personally today by a delegation of women, described as representing organizations with an estimated membership of 12,000,000.

ONLY SUPERFICIAL DIAGNOSIS MADE, RELATIVES CLAIM

Injured Man Dismissed in Dangerous Condition and Died Soon After at Another Hospital, Son and Daughter Attest.

GRADY BOARD HEAD LAUNCHES PROBE

Resident Physician Tells Dobbs That Allen Apparently Was Not Badly Hurt; Negro Arrested

Charges of negligence in treatment of J. S. Allen, 67, retired furniture dealer, at Grady hospital following Allen's injury by a hit-and-run driver Thursday night, were made Friday in affidavits sworn to by Mrs. J. S. Allen, the widow; Mrs. J. L. Landers, a daughter, and John H. Allen, a son, after Allen's death about three hours later at Crawford W. Long Memorial Hospital and Clinic.

Allen's family alleged that he was dismissed from Grady as not seriously injured after a superficial examination by an intern when as a matter of fact he was in such a dangerous condition that he died soon after.

Police Friday afternoon were questioning John Burns, 21, negro, of 33 Butler street, who was arrested by City Detective E. W. Ginn, in connection with the hit-and-run case.

Burns admitted being in the car that struck Allen, but denied being the driver, police said. Armed with the name of the alleged negro driver, police were engaged in an intensive search for the man, who was said to have run from the scene of the accident with Burns.

An investigation of the treatment and dismissal of Allen at Grady hospital was made Friday by Sam C. Dobbs, chairman of the hospital board of trustees. Mr. Dobbs absolved the attending Grady physician of blame.

Reported Injuries Not Serious.

Dr. J. H. Butler, resident physician, said Friday night that he did not see Allen personally, but that he obtained a report from Dr. Jack Douglas, who said that Allen's head and ankle were lacerated, his respiration and pulse were normal, and that there appeared to be no reasons to justify taking X-ray pictures, as there were no symptoms of brain injury or fracture.

Patrolman Joe Wiley, who is stationed on duty at the emergency clinic, said that Allen did not appear to be injured seriously when he came to the clinic. Allen was badly bruised and his scalp was lacerated, and on the basis of information given him by Dr. Douglas, he reported to officers investigating the case that Allen was not injured seriously, Wiley said.

Patrolman N. E. Pittman and A. L. Allen were investigating an accident.

The nurse on duty in the clinic at the time Allen was treated said that she could not talk about the matter, as a Grady hospital gas-rule would not permit her to make a statement.

Samuel C. Dobbs Says Dr. Douglas Did "as Best He Could."

Investigation of the dismissal of J. S. Allen, of 917 Piedmont avenue, from Grady hospital and his death about three hours later at Crawford W. Mr. Dobbs said that he talked to Dr. Jack Douglas, who treated Allen Thursday night, and Dr. J. H. Butler, resident physician, and went into the case thoroughly.

While expressing his deepest sympathy for the family, he said:

THE CHEF SUGGESTS . . .

By JOSEPH BOGGIO,
Chef, the Hotel Plaza, New York.

It is true that when the chef asks the world expects to hear of the but extravagant dishes, complex seasonings and sauces, which to the average housewife are but names instead of possibilities.

To those of us who preside over the kitchens of great hotels, that is but a natural procedure. For here there is at our command every known delicacy; exotic fresh fruits and vegetables regardless of season; rare herbs and spices from four corners of the earth.

But even so, we should remember that the fundamentals of good cooking are the same, whether food is destined for the average household or for the epicures who are served in the dining rooms of our famous hotels.

Let us take so small a menu as that which is arranged for afternoon tea. It can be so usual and uninteresting, but also it can be distinctive without being difficult.

We enjoy tea most, do we not, when there is wide variety in the selection of sandwiches presented upon beautiful trays. Many little cakes and cookies may follow after and find themselves appreciated. . . . but it is the sandwich tray that we look for, appetizing first bite served with tea, coffee or chocolate which is the main part of the ceremony.

I shall, therefore, give you a few recipes for tea sandwiches which are individual although easily prepared, and you will find that they make an excellent assortment.

Tartar Sandwich—Mince one tablespoon each—chives, capers, gherkins and tarragon leaves; add a little lemon juice and tarragon vinegar; French mustard and paprika; two tablespoons of butter. Blend all together. Spread on whole wheat bread.

Toasted Cheese Sandwich—Remove crust from slices of bread and toast; spread one slice with finely chopped ham, and place over this a slice of American cheese; sprinkle with cayenne pepper and salt. Toast them under a gas broiler, and when cheese is melted cut into forms.

Mousse of Chicken Sandwich—Remove meat from carcass of a boiled chicken; put this through a meat-grinder and then into a bowl; add cream and butter and seasoning. Mix well together, spread on sandwich bread. Mousse of ham is made the same way.

Russian Sandwich—Spread thin Boston brown bread—one slice with Neufchatel cheese made into a paste with cream, the other with minced pickles moistened with mayonnaise. Put together with a lettuce leaf between; cut in shapes.

Tuna Sandwich—Mash a small can of tuna to a paste, moisten with mayonnaise and a little chili sauce. Spread on white bread.

These are among the favorites served during the hour for tea at the Plaza. Although each is simple, it has a special tang and a light yet substantial quality that is most welcome. To the tray we usually add a few sandwiches of watercress and lettuce, pecan sandwiches and a few anchovy, rounding out a well-balanced assortment which often prompts guests to ask for recipes.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

MRS. D. LEIGH COLVIN.

President, Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New York State

It would be only logical for us to expect a veritable flood of recipes for prohibition punches from one who is so concerned with the subject as is Mrs. Colvin. But the lady balks at the restrictions of that word "Prohibition."

"How can I give a recipe for my favorite punch when I prefer the simplest kind of fruit drink to those well concocted," she said in discussing the subject. "Hot beverages I do not care for at all. Iced tea, coffee or chocolate I am very fond of."

So you see what a plain and unpretentious beverage recipe I should have to give to the women of the United States if it were to go out as my "favorite." Let me instead give a recipe for my favorite bread. It is a nut bread, made much like biscuit dough, and is extremely quick and easy to prepare. The ingredients are:

Nut Bread.
1 egg.
1 teaspoon melted butter.
1 cup sugar.
1 1/4 cups milk.
1 cup walnut meats.
4 cups flour sifted with 4 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream egg, butter and sugar, add milk, add flour and baking powder, then nut meats. Stir the mixture quickly and set in warm place. In about a half hour it will be nearly double the original size and is ready to be baked in a moderate oven.

Question and Answer Column
Q. What is better for thickening white sauce and gravies—flour and water or cornstarch and water? I find cornstarch quicker and less likely to lump.
A. White sauce should be thickened by blending butter and flour in the proportions of 1 tablespoon butter to 1 of flour for each cup of milk, if you want a thin sauce, or 1 tablespoon of butter to 2 of flour for each cup of milk for medium sauce. Add a little of the hot milk to the flour and butter mixture and stir until smooth; then gradually add the thickening to the hot milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Cook for several minutes and serve at once.

Pan gravies may be thickened by adding a teaspoon or a tablespoon of flour (according to the quantity of gravy wanted) to the butter or grease in the pan; stir briskly, then thin with milk, stock or water. Cook slowly for several minutes, stirring constantly.

Q. I am a pretty good cook, but one thing I can't seem to get is crusty fried potatoes; not French, but old-fashioned fried potatoes. Mine get brown but are limp when they get to the table. What is wrong?
Mrs. T. P. O'C.

A. The secret of frying potatoes with crisp, golden-brown edges is a very simple one. If possible use an old-fashioned iron spider or frying pan. Slice the cooked potatoes, put a small bit of suet in pan and heat; add plenty of butter and when piping hot put in the sliced potatoes. Do this with some regularity and without overcrowding. Fry fairly slowly, with no lid on the pan! When under layer is brown, turn with a spatula, and when second layer is brown, serve at once. Limpness and softness are caused by the accumulation of steam in the pan as when covered or overcrowded; also by allowing the potatoes to stand after the finishing point has been reached.

FOODS THAT ARE FRIENDLY TO BEAUTY

By KATHLEEN MARY QUINLAN.

Prosperity, which has brought leisure as well as money, travel and contact with older cultures, has brought to the American woman the realization that one of her happiest obligations is to be decorative and inspiring.

Competition grows keener every day and with it comes the necessity for personal loveliness. . . . for in general men judge women by exterior effects. It may be unfair, but it is only human. To prefer a plain woman to one that is really something of an abnormality, and proves conclusively that the time spent in self-improvement is far from wasted.

There may be some measure of truth in the old adage that beauty is only skin deep, but its origin lies deeper and depends on the health and proper functioning of the system equally as much as upon external care and protection of the tissues.

Diet is one of the most influential factors in the maintenance of health and beauty. We can trace most physical ailments and most skin troubles to an unbalanced and unsuitable diet. A knowledge of the value of different foods is therefore most desirable and helpful.

For example, practically everyone would benefit greatly by increasing the daily consumption of fruits to balance the heavy foods eaten. . . . fruits which have a tendency to clog the system. In this respect perhaps no other branch of the fruit family is more effective than that which is known as the citrus group—the oranges, lemons and grapefruit.

There are, of course, a very few instances in which doctors will advise against the use of fruit, but this is only in special cases, where a certain abnormal tendency is to be combated, and where the individual metabolism operates in reverse to the general. Broadly speaking, however, there is practically no one who will not benefit by the drinking of orange juice two or three times a day. It is a very good thing to begin the day with it, and to have it again in the afternoon and evening. . . . or it may be taken before one's meals.

Those having a tendency to sluggish liver and salivary complexion will find the juice of a lemon diluted in half a glass of warm, unseasoned water is very helpful in clearing both system and skin. This is best taken on arising—every morning.

A grapefruit for breakfast or as the first course at luncheon also helps to clear the system and in most cases assists in correcting acidosis. It should be taken without sugar whenever this tendency is present.

As skin troubles such as eruptions and sallowness can be traced directly to an acid condition or to sluggishness of the facial circulation or digestive organs, these tendencies should be combated through dietary as well as external measures. And this can indeed be accomplished by including in the daily menu an abundance of foods that are direct aids to beauty.

BANKERS ANSWER SUITS BY STATE
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 10.—Four former directors of the Holston Trust Company, sued by the state as signers of an alleged $500,000 bond securing the state for highway deposits, filed answers in chancery court today, denying liability and asking that the suit be dismissed as to them.

The four, Asa Hazen, M. C. Monday, D. A. Rosenthal and Mitchell Long, deny that the Holston Trust Company, ever engaged in the banking business, that it ever became a legal state depository, that it is indebted to the state $252,509 (the amount sued for), and that state highway funds of $250,000 were legally deposited.

CHATS WITH A POPULAR HOSTESS

By MRS. OLIVER HARRIMAN,

Chairman, Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries.

Everywhere, it seems to me, the world likes to draw a line of distinction between the desires and pretensions of business women and "home women," or those in the so-called social group.

I, for one, have always believed that the fundamental nature of woman changes greatly, whether circumstances require her to enter business or to remain at home. She is at her best, and happiest, when she is mistress of her own home and hostess at her own well-pointed table.

It was interesting to find this theory borne out by a recent survey which was conducted by the Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries. Its objective was really to determine one question: "Can the business woman cook her own meals without detriment to her health?" But the replies soon proved that the question could be viewed from many other angles.

Unexpectedly they revealed the psychology of the business woman as related to her home; her practicality, her common sense as to the value of food and its relation to general health. But to me the most interesting revelation of all was the love of home itself that was evidenced by practically all of the answers received from women who were not obliged to "eat out."

Here were some of the reasons why business women preferred to dine at home: They found joy in the possession of attractive appointments; a pride in preparing and serving food; pride in the ability to invent new dishes, and, above all, they took delight in the opportunity that the home gives them to offer hospitality.

Health education programs, too, were shown to have had their effect on the business woman's choice of food. Dietary rules were observed by her just as rigidly as by the society matron or the actress whose beauty depends upon radiant good health. And she was just as careful to plan well-balanced meals as is the homemaker on whose wisdom the health of little children rests.

Our questionnaire demonstrated that the business woman knows considerable about proteins, vitamins and carbohydrates; she is all aware of the present-day tendency to give fresh vegetables and fruits a prominent place in the daily diet; and, furthermore, she can serve herself delightful, well-balanced meals, including "fresh things" and many little luxuries that on a restaurant menu are prohibitive to a slender purse. . . . and do this at a saving of 50 per cent or more!

All of which, to my mind, disproves that business is, as so many claim, destroying the home spirit or lessening the woman's desire to keep her feet under her own table and to reign supreme as hostess in her own home. At heart the business woman is as any other woman—a true lover of the comforts and benefits to be obtained by an intelligent administration of her own household.

SEASON CLOSING AT PALM BEACH
PALM BEACH, Fla., April 10.—(AP)—Palm Beach's social season ended tonight with the closing of the Breakers hotel, center of the resort's fashionable life.

The closing of the Breakers had been preceded by the seasonal close of the Everglades Club and other rendezvous of wealth and social position. Gatherings of the prominent continued in brilliance and size up until a few days ago. Many prominent home owners of the colony kept their establishments open for visits of sons and daughters, who had previously been studying at eastern schools. The Easter holidays served as farewell time for many of the elite.

Some villa owners are remaining here indefinitely.

Founders' Day Celebrated At State Teachers' College

Addresses by Leading Alumni, Banquet and Reception Mark Program; Dr. J. M. Pound Presides.

ATHENS, Ga., April 10.—History of one of the state's principal educational institutions, now the Georgia State Teachers' College, was told here Friday night in story, song and drama at the founders' day celebration. Dr. J. M. Pound, president, presided.

Beginning with a banquet in the school's dining hall, and interspersed with addresses by leading alumni of the school, the celebration lasted more than three hours, closing with a reception at the Winnie Davis hall.

After the banquet, the guests moved to the auditorium, where Mrs. Willard Patterson, Atlanta clubwoman, and Mrs. E. W. Butler, Madison, both members of the class of 1906, delivered addresses, preceded by a brief history of the school which was actually begun in the early nineties, as a sort of high school, later was known as Rock College, then as the State Normal school and now as the Georgia State Teachers' College.

Pageant Presented.
A pageant at the Pantages auditorium was presented, showing scenes of the early and modern days of the school with students dressed in the costumes of a quarter of a century ago contrasted with those of the present. The college annual, known in 1906 as Levena and now as The Crystal, was reduplicated in magnificent size on the stage and the students, dressed in the costumes of today and yesterday were shown in the frame. Mrs. Butler represented the class of 1906, and Miss Myrtle Brown, of Martin, represented the class of 1931.

Mrs. Patterson urged the college to strengthen its alumni association and employ an alumni secretary.

"By means of a strong alumni organization and an alumni secretary, the college could be recognized and given appropriations by the state legislature," she said. "As it is the college, a state institution, has been able to accommodate all the persons who want to come here. The friends of the college have contributed more to its upkeep than the state has," she asserted.

Mrs. Patterson was introduced by Dr. Pound.

A group of the alumni and friends who were visiting the college for the event were the guests at the banquet and a reception.

FARMER ENDS LIFE NEAR GREENVILLE

GREENVILLE, Ga., April 10.—(P)—Homer Woodruff, 38, farmer, was found dead in a piece of woods near his home two miles north of Greenville Friday afternoon. A coronor's jury returned a verdict that he came to his death by suicide, having taken poison. He had told several parties recently that he was going to take his life, witnesses said at the inquest.

A note found on his person addressed to all of his friends said he had had "a hard time and it did not look any better so he was tired of living and believed there was a better place for him." The note also told his friends "goodbye." Domestic trouble is believed to have been the cause of his act. He leaves his wife and four children.

MACONITE FOUND BEATEN IN PARK

MACON, Ga., April 10.—(P)—Police are investigating a report that James L. Miller, 33, of Griffin, a World War veteran, was beaten into unconsciousness late Thursday night in Central City park and robbed of $27.

Police said C. B. Durden discovered Miller in the rear of the railroad shops which adjoin Central City park, bleeding profusely from a wound above the right temple, and in a dazed condition. Stimulants were administered and the man's wounds were bathed. He was then taken to Macon hospital for emergency treatment.

"He told me that he cashed a government pension check at a drug store and then walked down to the park to see a friend who worked for a circus," Durden stated to police.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 10.—(P)—Two army fliers came out unscathed Friday from an airplane which nosed over in a plowed field. The plane was participating in maneuvers here and ran into the field while landing. W. Hill Snyder, 16th observation squadron, Pope field, Fort Bragg, N. C., was the pilot and Lieutenant Ernest C. Sly, Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., was the observer in the plane. Neither was hurt, although the plane was damaged.

MACONITE CONVICTED OF ILLEGAL VOTING

MACON, Ga., April 10.—(P)—Convicted in Bibb superior court Friday on one count of an indictment charging him with illegal voting in Macon's $1,000,000 bond election of March 18, 1930, Roy Graham will hear the sentence of the court tomorrow.

Judge Malcolm D. Jones, presiding, said when the jury returned its verdict at 6:40 o'clock Friday night that he would like to "think it over before imposing sentence."

The jury retired at 3:50 o'clock in the afternoon after hearing evidence throughout the morning session.

Graham was found guilty only of attempting to vote in the name of H. R. Dennis here. He was acquitted on counts charging him with actually voting in that name and in voting or attempting to vote in the name of John Justice.

A jury Thursday afternoon acquitted J. M. Mitchell, poolroom manager, on charges of voting illegally. He sat in the courtroom throughout the session today.

Last October, Jesse Harris, Macon attorney and manager of the bond campaign, was acquitted on charges of having promoted a scheme of illegal voting. Four more are yet to be tried on charges of illegal voting. They are David Macon, E. L. Vann, "Big Boy" Grace and Mrs. Paul Stallworth.

IMAGINARY TROOPS BOMBED AT BENNING

Attack of U. S. Air Force Obliterates Dummy Encampment.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 10.—(P)—A dummy encampment of imaginary "enemy troops" was obliterated today by United States army air force which first raked the area with machine gun fire and then followed with a bombing attack.

An area at the lower end of a field at Fort Benning was equipped with dummies to resemble an encampment.

The mimic warfare, one of the features of maneuvers here in which troops from throughout the four corps area are participating, began when a fleet of fighting planes zoomed down on the dummy garrison.

The roar of the airplane motors punctuated with the stop-start-rat-tat of the machine guns, the imaginary troops manning anti-aircraft guns were felled.

Then followed the great bomb planes, releasing the whining bombs on the targets below. For four hours the fire continued. High explosive shells burst on the "enemy" encampment.

Major General Frank R. McCoy, commander of the fourth corps area, and Brigadier General George Eastman, in command of the maneuver force, witnessed the demonstration.

On another section of the reservation, the secret balloon company, Fort Bragg, N. C., made aerial observation from an army blimp.

One minor mishap occurred during the day. An airplane piloted by Hill Snyder, 16th observation squadron, Pope field, Fort Bragg, N. C., and carrying Lieutenant Ernest C. Sly, of Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., as observer, ran into a plow field while landing and nosed over. Neither pilot nor observer was injured, although the plane was damaged.

The annual horse and transportation show of the infantry school at Fort Benning was held this afternoon. The show also will be held again tomorrow afternoon. Some of the mounts which won prizes in the Augusta, Ga., horse show will participate.

Efforts to induce Benson to talk have so far proved futile, and since the crime he has persistently behaved in an irrational and erratic fashion. At the time of Jones' arrest in Birmingham less than a week ago on an auto theft charge, he gave his home as being Coal Mountain, N. C., but attempts of police to communicate known they had questioned during the day a young girl whom they described as the sweetheart of Harry Stein, held without bail, charged with suspicion of homicide.

The detectives said the girl wore a wrist watch strap similar to that on Vivian Gordon's missing watch. They said they had ascertained the strap was not purchased with the watch the girl wore. They would not state whether it had been given to her. The officers made it clear they did not see any connection of the girl with the Gordon killing or events linked with it. No intimation of her identity was permitted to reach reporters. It was indicated that after she had been questioned the girl was permitted to go about her own affairs. Today, with five men in custody, charged either with commission of the crime or held as material witnesses, police said they were looking for still another man.

Console Sister in Sorrow

Archie Roosevelt, left, and his brother Kermit, right, rushed to Aiken, South Carolina, by airplane when news of the serious illness of their distinguished brother-in-law, Nicholas Longworth, reached them. They arrived after Mr. Longworth died and are accompanying their sister, Mrs. Roosevelt Longworth, to Cincinnati where funeral services will be held today.

Theaters Offer New Programs
On Screen and Stage Today

To many thousands of theatergoers the appearance of a new Norma Shearer picture is the biggest thing that can happen in the entertainment field. These thousands will realize their deepest desire in Atlanta in "Strangers May Kiss," the latest Shearer starring vehicle, which opens its local run at the Fox theater today. Critics pronounce it by far the best picture Miss Shearer has yet made, while special praise is given the work of Robert Montgomery in the principal male role.

On the stage the Fox presents on its new bill, Fanchon and Marco's "Doll Follies," idea. This is spectacular, beautiful and, in many of its scenes, especially appealing to children. Enrico Leide conducting the Fox concert orchestra, Al Evans at the organ and a group of splendid short subjects complete the bill.

"SKIPPI" AND GIRL SHOW

Featured at Georgia "Skippi," that deliciously human boy character created by Percy Crosby for the daily comic strips, comes to life in the feature picture which heads the new program at the Georgia today. Played by Jackie Cooper, of "Our Gang" fame, Skippi is, in reality, exactly like the Skippi of pen and ink. He is splendidly supported by Robert Coogan, younger brother of Jackie; Mitz Green, Jackie Scarl, other youngsters and some famous adult players. The picture is humorous and yet packed with emotional appeal that should charm the adults as well as delight the children.

"BEHIND OFFICE DOORS"

ON CAPITOL SCREEN

"Behind Office Doors," a romantic story of the relationship between some business executives and their secretaries and stenographers, is the screen feature opening today at the Capitol. With Mary Astor and Robert Ames in the principal roles, it is certain to be intriguing entertainment. It is said to be a picture of remarkable frankness and its dealing with a somewhat delicate subject is described as of unusual brilliance. It tells of a secretary who, through her secret love for one of the men in her office, lifts him to the highest position possible, only to see him losing his opportunity through his reckless affairs with other women.

On the stage, the Capitol gives this week "Demi-Virgin," a production on which the A. B. Marcus Company have been working for weeks with the object of making it their greatest and most spectacular effort.

Newsreel and short subjects will also be shown on the Rialto program.

Mrs. Hoover, the services will be attended by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., widow of the former president; Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Vice President; Curtis, delegations from congress and numerous other organizations. SENATE IS READY FOR SMITH FIGHT

Court Fight on Power Commission Head Will Be Started Soon.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(P)—The senate's legal challenge of President Hoover's right to retain George Otis Smith as chairman of the power commission was prepared today for filing early next week.

Final arrangements for the court test expected to carry the unprecedented constitutional conflict between the president and the senate to the supreme court, were completed at a conference between senators and lawyers charged with prosecution of the case.

Chairman Norris and Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, of the senate judiciary subcommittee, created to arrange the legal proceedings, discussed the case with John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president in 1924, and former Governor Grosbeck, of Michigan, who have been employed as counsel to represent the senate.

They agreed upon the terms of the petition which will be filed in the District of Columbia supreme court to test Smith's right to office.

Meanwhile, former Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, who has been employed to represent Smith, was in Washington preparing to answer the senate's contention. He has been working on the case for several days and has spent part of the time at the White House going over data in connection with Smith's nomination.

The senate rejected Smith's nomination after it had previously confirmed the appointment and the chairman had been sworn into office.

President Hoover challenged the legality of the senate's action and retained Smith in office.

RUSSIA TO REDUCE COTTON IMPORTS

MOSCOW, April 10.—(P)—Plans of the soviet government to increase Russia's cotton crop over 50 per cent in 1931 will deal something of a blow to the country's imports from America if the plan is realized.

Nearly 6,000,000 acres will be planted to cotton in Russia in 1931, according to present plans. This is a 50 per cent increase in acreage over 1930 and the government hopes, by the use of fertilizers and better equipment to increase the crop 80 per cent.

Imports of cotton in 1930 were 57,830 tons, of which 20,806 tons came from the United States, 16,418 tons from Egypt and the remainder from Persia, India, Turkey, Afghanistan and China.

NEW YORK, April 10.—(P)—Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan were welcomed to America today with all the noise that could be mustered in New York bay; with all the stock-ticker tape and confetti available in lower Manhattan's canyons.

Arriving on the Aquitania, several hours delayed, they were transferred at Quarantine to the S. S. Macom, the city's greeting tug, then taken to The Battery, transferred to autos and speeded to the Plaza hotel in midtown through streets lined with crowds.

Whistles in the bay footed, cannon boomed, fog horns groaned, fireboats spouted, bands played. A group of communists at The Battery shouted "down with the Japanese hangman," and rushed the royal motor car.

He failed to appear for trial before a magistrate this morning. A short time later the body was found in a path in a lonely spot on the mountain. An empty vial, drained of its contents, was found near the body. The death was officially pronounced a case of suicide by a coroner's jury.

Semi-Centennial Celebration Is Begun at Spelman College

Negro Institution Opened 50 Years Ago Today in Basement of Church. Distinguished Visitors Here.

In the presence of distinguished visitors, including a number of educational and religious leaders, and several hundred alumnae and former students, Spelman College, which 50 years ago today was started in the basement of a local colored church, Friday began the celebration of its semi-centennial. A gymnastic meet, an assembly of graduates, and a reception at the residence of President Florence M. Reed constituted the day's program. Today there will be an all-student assembly at 10:30 o'clock, a formal academic program in Sisters' chapel at 3 o'clock, and a historical pageant at 8 o'clock to-night.

Fully 1,000 persons crowded into Morehouse College gymnasium Friday afternoon to see the students of Spelman College compete with students of Atlanta University laboratory high school for the Trevor Arnett cup which is awarded annually to the student showing the greatest skill in basketball.

The judges awarded first place and the cup to Ruth Westmoreland, Atlanta, high school junior. Anna Reed, Atlanta high school senior, was awarded second place, while Edith Moore, Atlanta, high school junior; Margaret Walker, Atlanta, high school sophomore; and Jean Taylor, Sheffield, Ala., college junior, were given honorable mention.

At Friday night's assembly of graduates were representatives of every decade in the college's history, including one who as a child was carried to the school on its opening day, April 11, 1881, by her mother, who was enrolled in the first class. This graduate of the school, Sarah Lay Knight, of Dallas, Ga., was one of the speakers at the alumnae assembly. Features of the gathering were a group of living pictures, and the reading of a historical prize essay by its author, Josephine Eleanor Harrell, Spelman College sophomore.

Celebration in Chapel.

Sisters chapel, which stands as a memorial to Laura Spelman Rockefeller and her sister, Lucy M. Spelman, will be the scene of the formal celebration this afternoon of the 50th anniversary of the college's founding. Preceded by an academic procession from nearby Rockefeller hall, the delegates, faculty and guests of honor will enter the auditorium to the music of the "Triumphant March" from "Aida." President Harvey Warren Cox, of Emory University, will read the Scriptural passage, and Rev. E. R. Carter, pastor of the Friendship Baptist church, in whose basement the college found its first home, will offer the prayer.

The chief speakers of the afternoon will be Dr. Julian H. Lewis, assistant professor of pathology at the University of Chicago, whose subject will be "The Basic Elements of an Education," and Dr. Jackson Davis, assistant professor of education at the University of Chicago, who will discuss "The Negro Woman in the Classroom."

Greetings will be given by spokesmen from the following organizations and groups:

Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, Mrs. George Caleb Moore, president.

Negro Baptists of Georgia, Rev. James M. Nabrit, president, general missionary Baptist convention of Georgia.

White Baptists of Georgia, Rev. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga.

Northern Baptists, Everett Carlton Herrick, president, Newton Theological Seminary.

Sister institutions, James Ross McCain, president, Agnes Scott College; John Hope, president, Morehouse College and Atlanta University.

Singing of Spirituals.

During the course of the program two spirituals will be sung, "I'm Seeking and Ye Shall Find" and "I'm Going Down to the River of Jordan." The Morehouse Spelman chorus choir will sing the "Magnificat," and preceding the benediction by Rev. Franklin Halstead Clapp, president of Gammon Theological Seminary, the congregation will sing the Negro spiritual, "Lift Every Voice and Sing."

Tonight on the stage of Sisters' chapel, which has been rebuilt for the occasion, the students of Spelman College, assisted by men from Morehouse College, will present a pageant.

"I would not make the attempt again for a million pounds," he said as he clambered out of his plane, "though I was glad to beat the record."

Judge Soper has been invited to sit as guest jurist with the fourth district judges when they open their April term Tuesday at Charleston, S. C., appointed in 1923 to the federal bench, he is 58 years old.

The fourth district is composed of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the Carolinas.

POSTAL RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

Three of the 50 selected cities, Nashville, Fort Worth and Jersey City, had struggled out of the decrease column into which all were plunged last month.

The March receipts were but 7 per cent less than March last year, whereas February receipts were 10.3 per cent less than February last year.

Periodical Pains Relieved In 3 Minutes

Month after month, some women still suffer needless pain, but those who know simply go to a drug store or soda fountain, get a package or dose of "B-C," and get perfect relief in 3 minutes, continuing their duties in pain-free, easy comfort.

"B-C" is the formula of two North Carolina druggists; contains several ingredients that function together for the relief of headache, neuralgia and periodical pains, accomplishing in a few minutes what no one drug formula can do under 1 to 3 hours.

"B-C" stops the pain, quiets the nerves, is perfectly harmless. No other preparation like it. Nothing else gives such profound relief. Ask your druggist, he knows.—(adv.)

ISLAND FORTIFIES AGAINST PORTUGAL

Boat Passengers Arriving at Lisbon Tell of Madeira Revolt.

LISBON, Portugal, April 10.—(AP) A story of having been held prisoner by rebels at Funchal, Madeira, for three days was brought here tonight by the steamer Carvalho Araujo carrying 177 passengers from the Azores and Madeira.

Captain Pinto told the Associated Press that one of the passengers was an American who with two Frenchmen and several Englishmen filed protests with their consulates against what they considered illegal detention.

The "imprisonment" was of a formal nature, Captain Pinto said, and involved no hardships except to delay those who wanted to continue their voyage.

The rebel officers boarded the steamer as soon as they reached Funchal, he said, and told him he and his passengers must consider themselves prisoners. They seized the cargo consisting of 50 bullocks and several hundred bags of foodstuffs. Later they gave him a receipt saying, "Go get your money from the Lisbon treasury."

Thirty lieutenants and sergeants who were returning to Lisbon from the Azores after being granted a pardon by President Carmona for complicity in the last conspiracy, were among the passengers and these joined the rebels, being warmly welcomed into the fold.

Colonel Novonha, commanding officer of the Funchal garrison, hid in the ship's hold and remained there three days without being discovered.

Immediately on landing Colonel Novonha reported to the minister of war and told him that he saw trenches being dug around the island, a number of small guns and 850 centimeter guns placed on the hillside, in addition to existing land batteries, making the island almost impregnable, he said.

Captain Pinto said that 2,500,000 escudos (about $12,500) had been taken from the Bank of Portugal at Funchal to meet the expenses of running the island.

Advices from Porto Santo, one of the Madeira group, said that the transport Pedro Gomez arrived today carrying troops to combat the rebels.

She will be joined by other transports and warships and the expedition will then sail for Madeira, 40 miles away.

Miss Dell Urges Girls To Prepare For Married Life

—Miss Jessie Dell, member of the United States civil service commission, Friday told the students of Agnes Scott College here that the highest aim of every woman should be wifehood and motherhood.

"I say this," Miss Dell said, "although I myself am unmarried."

"Motherhood is the development of a woman as woman and as mother to be developed. It gives her an opportunity to train her own offspring for good citizenship and the better mother herself is trained in her youth the better she is equipped to help and advise her children."

"Then, if untoward circumstances should make it necessary for the mother to contribute toward the family income, or, as often happens, to undertake the full responsibility, the ability is there."

"The idea that only men should be practically educated, and that women need not know anything beyond the ingredients of a chocolate cake and the manner of embroidering a scarf, belongs to the era of the stage coach and the covered wagon."

"It makes no difference whether you expect to go to work or not; you should be equipped to work if you have to. In short, you should be trained to take any place in society to which circumstances and inclination carry you."

"No real woman is content to be merely an ornament, cared for and protected."

"The best type of woman realizes her own responsibility and duty and wants to be prepared to meet it."

Emory Is Given Davis' Portrait By A. E. F. Unit

Homage was paid to the memory of one of the south's greatest surgeons Friday night in the auditorium at Emory University hospital—formerly Wesley Memorial—when a portrait of the late Dr. E. C. Davis was presented to the Emory University Medical school by Dr. Frank K. Boland, on behalf of the famed Emory unit, of which Dr. Davis was one of the principal organizers.

With Dr. W. W. Anderson, president of the medical staff, acting as master of ceremonies, the program was opened by Miss Theodore and Miss Sarah Davis, daughters of Dr. Davis, who unveiled the portrait of their father. Dr. Boland then paid an eloquent tribute to Dr. Davis in his presentation address, eulogizing his achievements as a surgeon, a member of the Emory faculty, a patriot and a friend, and closing with the remark that no one has better earned a place in the university's hall of fame.

Dr. R. H. Oppenheimer, dean of the medical school, accepted the portrait formally on behalf of the school and added his own tribute to Dr. Davis' character, as did Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory, who followed Dr. Oppenheimer with an acceptance on behalf of the entire university.

The portrait, painted by Lewis Grege, Atlanta artist, was ordered by a special committee delegated to select distinguished members of the Emory faculty for the honor of having their portraits hung in the institution, and will be placed in the halls of the medical school. Members of the committee are Dr. Phinaz Calhoun, chairman; Dr. Boland and Dr. J. E. Paulin.

He said he had found all this in a man's pocketbook picked up on the Alexandria-Marksville highway, and stated he would be glad to return them to anyone properly identifying the name on the folder and contents.

LONG PARTY ATTACKED BY OPPOSING FACTION

COLFAX, La., April 10.—(AP)—Preston Leblanc, a brother of Public Service Commissioner Dudley Leblanc, of Lafayette, La., and his friend, Edouard Boudreaux, were lodged in the Grant parish jail here tonight by Sheriff Perkins after a free-for-all fight at Montgomery, La., today, with members of Governor Huey P. Long's party stumping the eighth congressional district for the candidacy of John H. Overton, for the national house of representatives.

Preston Leblanc and Boudreaux were charged with lying in wait with concealed weapons with intent to kill. Inasmuch as the charge is not bailable they were kept in jail until a hearing is granted.

Their opponents in the fight were Robert Brothers and his brother, Henry, members of the governor's party, and the fight occurred just after Governor Long and Mr. Overton had left Montgomery for Colfax after filling a speaking engagement at the former city.

The Leblanc party arrived in Montgomery just after the speaking was over and circulars were distributed among the crowd entitled "Vote for Leblanc for governor, the white man's friend," when Boudreaux and Robert Brothers engaged in a fist fight.

POLITE YOUTH ROBS STATION OF $29.33

One of those polite but firm burglars was encountered by L. C. Perdue at the filling station which he manages at Lee and Lawton streets Friday night, according to his report to police. A nice looking chap came into the station about 8 o'clock, he said, and hung around for nearly half an hour. When the negro porter finally came outside, the visitor pressed a gun into his hand and said: "I want to do this, but I have a wife and baby in the hospital and I'm going to take care of them. If I don't help them, they'll probably die."

Whereupon, the polite young man tapped the cash register for its contents, $29.33, and stepped out and around the corner into a machine which he had parked there. Call Officers Arthur Daley and Paul Higgins answered the summons and obtained a complete description.

Animated Movies To Be Used In Instructing Medical Students

Movies like those of "Mickey Mouse" with their wonderful of strange phenomena, will be used to teach medical students about some of the tasks of their future profession.

These were on display at the sessions in Cleveland, Ohio, recently of the American and Canadian sections of the International Association of Medical Museums. They were exhibited by Dr. Harry C. Schmeisser, of Memphis, Tenn., their producer.

They showed methods of studying the heart beats of a child before its birth. The film was constructed like an animated cartoon.

Dr. Schmeisser said that heart beats, infections, rasping of the throat and any number of other physiological phenomena which help a physician in his diagnosis can be represented in the motion pictures by expanding concentric circles, lighting bolts or many other comic strip exaggerations.

The sessions of the Association of Museums was being held concurrently with the annual conventions of the American Association of Immunologists and the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists.

At the research sessions Dr. George Crile, of Cleveland clinic, offered a suggestion that cancer may be caused by stray currents of electricity created in the affected tissue through irritation or injury. He described the "auto-synthetic" cell created at the clinic for the purpose of reaching a better understanding of the nature of cancer, and told of further work the clinic plans to do in this field.

DATE OF JULY 3 DEFINITELY SET FOR TITLE BOUT

Strib and Max To Clash in Cleveland Ring at Night.

By George Kirksey.

CHICAGO, April 10.—(UP)—The world's heavyweight boxing championship bout between Max Schmeling, of Germany, and W. L. (Young) Stribling, of Georgia, will be held at Cleveland, July 3, it was announced officially for the first time today by General John V. Clinch, president of the National Boxing Association.

"Chicago lost its opportunity to secure the bout through the difficulties encountered by the promoters with the local press," said Clinch, "the high rental of Soldier field, and the fact that the Illinois law limits boxing contests to ten rounds."

The National Boxing Association will present the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling bout with the heavyweight championship belt and the National Boxing Association certificate.

Full details of the bout will be announced at South Bend, Ind., April 15. Schmeling and his manager, Joe Jacobs, will be there that day as a stopover on the recognized champion's tour.

William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden; Sheldon Clark, of Chicago, and "Pa" Stribling, father and manager of the challenger, will also be present.

Although the date for the fight has been set for the night of July 3, there is a possibility that it may be moved to the afternoon of July 4. Many of the Cleveland backers are in favor of holding the bout on the holiday.

Mickey Walker, who is no longer recognized as a middleweight champion, although he has not lost his title in the ring, is still attempting to supersede Stribling as the challenger.

Stribling Begins Light Training

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 10.—(UP)—W. L. Stribling, Georgia contender for the heavyweight title, today began a period of light training here for his championship battle with Max Schmeling in Cleveland in July.

Stribling appeared to be in good condition when he donned a bathing suit for his first dip in the pool. In the afternoon he took a long walk with Mrs. Stribling, and finished off the day's exercise with several fast sets of tennis.

He said he had talked by telephone with "Pa" Stribling, who said today that "Pa" Stribling was leaving shortly for New York and Cleveland and would probably stop here for a brief visit on his way north.

SECRET PLACES

BY JOAN SUTHERLAND

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

"All the more chance of seeing something of you," he said, glancing down at her; "it's easy sometimes to be alone in a crowd, and very soon we shall have the right to be alone as much as we wish."

"Yes; not long now. We go back to Paris in a week. Feodor—how long can you stay?"

"Only till Sunday night," he said. "Hard luck, but there is a great deal to do."

"Sunday night—and today is Friday. Oh, how short!"

He put his arm around her shoulders for a moment, gripping them close. "I don't find any time short!" he said rather thickly. "Toni, an engagement is damnable—so much and so little!"

A thrill of pride tightened Toni's nerves as she heard that note in his voice; she knew, none better, what he felt at that moment, and her whole being responded; he felt the quiver that ran through her and rather abruptly released her and walked on with lips hard set and eyes looking straight ahead.

An hour or two later in the dining room Lady Alice's guests sat at coffee; the four long windows were wide open to the starry, moonlit dusk—velvet soft and deeply purple—and within was the paneled room with its portraits of dead and gone Vernets, its dark polished floor and its long dark table lit only by candles. Feodor, who had a keen appreciation of both beauty and drama, watched fascinated, for there was drama abroad, here in this house at this moment, since one of the guests, staying now with the Comte and Comtesse Rochegard, was none other than D'Arblaye.

He sat nearly opposite Feodor and therefore near Greta, whom Feodor had taken in. Greta, in dead black, with her amazing exquisite fairness of coloring and her sleepy, heavy eyes, wore a great strangely cut emerald, her only jewel. Feodor's curiosity was roused, so that presently he asked its history.

Greta, who had been silent, bored by Ravel on her other side, who, being every whit as egotistical as she, was not therefore the best companion for her, turned to him more animatedly than usual.

"Yes; isn't it extraordinary? It was left to me—by a dear friend who died. She bought it in Egypt years before."

"What a wonderful legacy!" he said lightly, and at that moment encountered D'Arblaye's glance as it sought Greta's, and read in it swift amusement as if Greta's answer had some secret humor in it. Instantly, Feodor was certain that it was a lie, swiftly and easily conceived, but a lie nevertheless, and stooping toward her, he looked at the jewel more closely.

"It is remarkable," he said with some emphasis; "and must be worth a very great deal as an antique as well as a jewel. You are not afraid to travel with it?"

"Not in the least. I am glad you think it so fine. Monsieur," he resolved, she turned back to the painter and took him away from his partner—"don't you think you ought to paint my sister? Portrait of a young girl on the eve of—quite a startling effect, since Toni is so extremely modern and also extremely in love."

Feodor spoke rather deliberately across the table to D'Arblaye.

"You are interested in jewels, I know," he said. "You should examine Mrs. Halkett's emerald. It is worth attention."

"I am aware of it. I am interested in rare jewels," D'Arblaye replied, and there was an edge to his voice; "and you yourself seem to find it attractive. Perhaps you, collector?"

Feodor lifted his tall-stemmed liquor glass and swallowed the contents; he knew the innuendo intended, and his temper strained at the leash.

"No," he said after a moment, as he set the glass down; "I haven't got the money for such a hobby, and turning to his other partner began to talk."

The following day Toni's mother had invited one other guest, whom she knew but slightly—Maitre Charles Siboux, the well known lawyer who was Feodor's French gofather—and had not yet had news when he was to arrive, so that Toni, who was in the morning-room at the moment the telephone message came through, had the pleasure of finding Feodor and telling him that Maitre Siboux and Ronald were arriving for lunch.

Feodor had been playing tennis, and the set being finished, the players retired into the shade for various cooling drinks, while he came and sat down by Toni.

"If I had wanted anything else, which I did not," he said, "it would have been Siboux's law. Toni, I think you'll love him. It's always a risky thing praising one person to another when you are very anxious for the two to be friends, but if you don't like him, the dear old man, I shall be very surprised."

Toni made a grimace. "I don't like lawyers as a rule," she said. "They're as dry as dust and inhuman. They always seem to me to have no blood in them at all. And you say he is old."

Something in her tone made him look at her.

"Why, Toni," he said slowly; "would you really prefer he did not come? I am sorry; I did not mean to force my friends on you," and at the sudden surprise in his tone, Toni put her hand quickly on his arm.

"Oh, no, my dear, don't misunderstand," she said. "Was I being horrid? I didn't mean it. Only something about all these people worry me. We never get any time really alone."

"Yes," he said, in rather a low voice. "Now you know what I meant yesterday by saying that an engagement was a damnable time, Toni. It is. Half a loaf. I'm not going to play tennis any more, I'll go up and change and then come down; and we might get a short walk before lunch. What time is Ronnie arriving?"

"He expects to be down here somewhere about 1, and I believe Greta has gone over to the Rochegards' to lunch. It will be just luck if she's there when he comes, and D'Arblaye is sure to bring her back. Oh, damn everybody else's love affairs."

She was walking beside him toward the house and stamped on the grass, whereat he laughed.

"My dear, don't talk about love affairs," he said. "You're not suggesting that D'Arblaye and Greta have a love affair, are you?"

Whereupon Toni suddenly stopped and looked at him.

"Feodor," Toni said, "do you really honestly think I know so little of the world that I believe those two are just friends? Why, you know quite well that no man could be a friend of Greta's. She's not the type. A man doesn't want friendship with anyone so exquisitely lovely as Greta is, or as cruel as she is either. It isn't friendship D'Arblaye feels. You know that. Don't pretend!"

"I may be young, but I do know something of life."

He nodded and frowned.

"Yes," he said, "I know; but it's not for me to throw stones, Toni, dear. Life taught me this, at least: 'He that is without sin among you.'"

The change in his voice made her look up at him. At his tone, and the sudden sternness she saw about his mouth and eyes, Toni slipped her hand within his arm, and drew him away toward a little sheltered lawn, where there were seats in the shade of a big chestnut tree.

"Feodor," she said, "let's sit here for a little. There is plenty of time before lunch. What do you mean exactly by that? Were you trying to tell me something?"

"Yes, and no," he said. "I don't believe in telling. Toni, I think you are wise enough to agree with me; but I do believe that what you have said to me just now makes me realize that after all I've no right to complain of Greta's behavior, or her flirtations. My own past isn't as clean as all that. I wish it were."

His voice thickened a little, and Toni put out her hand and laid it over his.

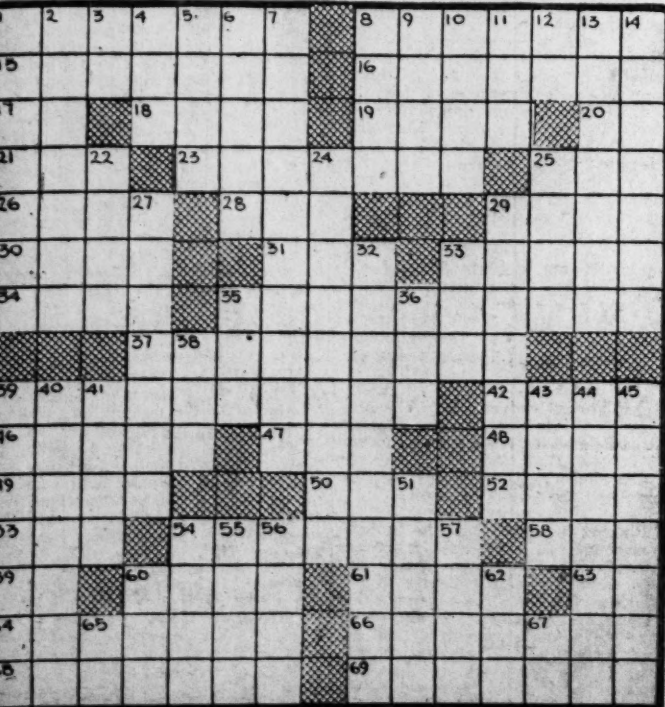

"I'm with you," she said. "No tellings. My dear, I know. After all, as I said to you just now, I know something of the world. I don't expect to be the first woman you've ever made love to, or anything of that kind. You're—how old are you, Feodor? Thirty-six? Well, as if you could have lived to be 36 without having cared for—well—more than one person!"

Miss Rankin Here To Discuss America's Part in Disarmament

BY MAINER LEE TOLER.

"During the past year the American government has appropriated millions of dollars for battleships and not one cent for babies," stated Miss Jeannette Rankin, first woman to ever serve in United States congress, who was a distinguished visitor in Atlanta yesterday. Accompanied by Miss Roberta Hodgson, teacher of international relations in the Georgia State Teachers' College in Athens, Miss Rankin came to Atlanta for the purpose of discussing with local leaders the part that the United States will play in the disarmament conference to be held in Europe next February.

In this connection she suggests with the hope that the United States will contribute the proposal of 25 per cent reduction in armaments for five years. "That would mean a reduction of only 5 per cent a year," said this former and famous anti-war member of the house of representatives from Montana who also maintains a home in Georgia.

Since the eventful day in April, 1917, when Congresswoman Rankin cast her vote against the United States entering the World War she has worked untiringly and faithfully for peace. As an associate secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, she is carrying on in her own renowned name as well as in that of the organization which was recently referred to by a well known writer as "the spearhead of the American pacifist movement."

So earnest and sincere is Miss Rankin's burning desire to end wars forever that she is known as the field marshal at headquarters for the National Council for Prevention of War, in Washington where she spends much of her time in the interest of peace.

Heading back to the States when as the only woman member of congress she introduced the maternity and infancy bill which was later passed, Miss Rankin asserted in yesterday's interview that she is of the same opinion that congress needs more women members. "In fact," said Miss Rankin, "they need representation in proportion to the number of women in this country who are interested in welfare of women and children."

Human Personality.

HUMAN, spelled with capital letters, describes the personality of Jeannette Rankin. No wonder she is beloved by folks of every class. For she herself is just that—folksy. She loves people and in her great human heart there throbs a longing for peace because it means happiness to human beings throughout every land.

Indeed, she is a superwoman in heart and brain. But in physical appearance and manner she is extremely feminine. Her face beamed as she talked of her 60-acre pecan farm situated 10 miles from Athens, Ga., where she lives one-half of each year.

Accompanied by her two Georgia-raised colts, "Lano" and "Yellow-bell," Miss Rankin expects to begin soon her annual motor jaunt across the country to her home in Montana, where she spends the remaining six months of each year.

Next to working for peace, in which she finds her greatest joy, this great lover of humanity mothers all the babies of nearby farm neighbors in her western and southern homes in whose innocent pansy-like faces she sees no prophecy of war.

Mrs. King Hostess.

Mrs. Clyde L. King, Sr., entertained at tea yesterday at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in compliment to her daughters, Mrs. George Woodruff, of Birmingham, and Mrs. W. Troy Bivings, Jr., of New York.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. You name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Most of Us Are Called On to Live for Our Friends and Not to Die for Them—The Best Way to Deal With the Customers of Life Is to Keep Their Accounts Straight.

I know a woman whose conception of friendship is so sublime that I have the impulse to stop beside her on the street, step aside to give her the right of way. Strange, too, I speak to her as though she were a stranger. Personally, she is a stranger, but spiritually she compels from me an admiration so strong that I follow her with my eyes as far as I can see her.

She has been through the fire of affliction. There is no dancing, flickering flame in her eye, but a hot, pure flame which has burned up the dross of her nature and in so doing warmed all the trembling fingers that life has held to her fire. She is quiet. She is serene. She is peaceful.

Year after year she has gone on with the duties and privileges of the home, the school, the church, nothing to offer her in return. Year after year, she has fulfilled obligations from which the exigencies of time have absolved her. Year after year she has cherished memories which others would have considered atrophied and wasted away.

As a child I stood on the bank of a treacherous river and saw a Persian college boy plunge into the water to save a comrade who screamed for help to be rescued from a whirlpool into which he was being sucked. It was an heroic impulse and being a poor swimmer, my courage cost him his life. I have walked in a village cemetery and read these words on that lonely alien's grave: "Greater love hath no man than this: that a man lay down his life for his friend." When these words were spoken they referred to a life of self-sacrifice that culminated in a sacrificial death. They are true words and any one who has heard the piteous cries of a drowning man and seen the courage that answered that cry would not deny them.

But most of us are called on to live for our friends and not to die for them. How few, alas, are willing to pay the price! When I hear a woman complain of the negligence of a friend, when I hear a woman speak of the obligation of a friend, when I hear a woman speak of the failure of a friend, my eyes wander to the sad eyes I have described. What would those eyes say if they could meet such arrogance? Those eyes only know the privileges of friendship. They know nothing of its irksome obligations. Those eyes only know the divinity of friendship and nothing of its humanity.

What do your friends mean to you? Opportunity for exploitation of yourself or of some pet scheme or hobby? What do your friends mean to you? Pleasant and congenial companionship in which to while away dull hours? What do your friends mean to you? Are they ministers to your vanity and your pride? I'll tell you what your friends mean to you. They mean to you just what you mean to them. They give you just what you deserve, no matter what it costs them. They are selfish or unselfish with you as your conduct towards them invites them to be. And some are so big and so fine that what they give is far in excess of what you expect or have the right to ask. But these are rare.

Then to know the joy of real friendship one must give, and give, and give. And there is only one gift that counts. It isn't pretty sentiment happily expressed. It isn't a gift bought with money. It is the gift of oneself.

What the Market Did.		NEW YORK, April 10.—(P)
Number of advances: 141		Number of declines: 141
Stocks unchanged: 141		Total issues traded: 161,663

Stocks hovered over an uneventful of heaviness today. A rally in the last hour helped considerably, but it was temporary and final quotations were highly irregular, with small gains slightly favored.

A late bear drive against Westinghouse, which had been soggy all day, and Bethlehem Steel turned the market down in the last few minutes. Volume contracted to 1,600,000 shares, one of the year's smallest turnovers.

In the bond market, railroad issues were sold rather freely.

Although the averages showed a small net gain for the railroad stocks, thanks to the late covering, the market's most pronounced weakness was in these issues and in the steel stocks. Prices were at new 1931 minima. Norfolk and Western rose 2 1/2 points. Illinois Central 1 1/2, Southern Railway 1 1/2, and New Haven, Erie and Pennsylvania fractionally. Baltimore and Ohio and Louisville and Nashville remained heavy.

Selling of Westinghouse accompanied publication of an unofficial estimate that first quarter operations had resulted in a deficit. The stock dipped just under 8 points. Bethlehem Steel, since 1927 and closed 3 points down. Bethlehem lost 1 1/2. Allis Chalmers was weakest in the morning before the dividend issue was announced. United States Steel rallied 1 1/2 points, a point with the small increase in unfilled tonnage reported, but gave up most of its gain.

The rise of 100 tons in the steel corporation's backlog indicated the extent to which operations had been adjusted to demand. However, even so small an increase in the backlog was encouraging, since it was said that the company had included little or none of two important contracts received during the last week of March. Trade reviews reported irregularity in many directions.

East business had not met expectations and Dun's called attention to the recurring weakness of commodity prices, which was a preponderance of declines in the past week.

Wheat displayed early heaviness, reflecting the bearish crop estimate, but later rallied. Futures quotations were 1/2 cent higher, but were reacting to new seasonal lows, stiffened and was up 1-1/2 to 2-1/2. Cotton also regained early losses, closing 5 points up.

Aside from a small loss in the French franc, which crept closer to the gold point, there was little interest in the foreign exchange.
